The World's Washington special says: The Treasury Department officials are on the track of some great whishy frands in New York and elsewhere, and special agents have been quietly dispatched to look up the evidence. Great scereey is observed, but there is reason to helieve that two important frands have been perfected since the new regulations went into effect and that they will soon receive attention from the officials.—One of these two ship from the West to New York spirits of much lighter proof than are called for in their permits and bills of lading, the other for collectors in collusion with the fraudient shippers to conceal and ultimately destroy the brands given for transportation from one district to another. Some of the largest manipulators in both sections of the country have been quietly witched for a few weeks just and a large prepared for them into which they have already fallen. A delegation of lungray whishy men are tree urging the removal of Cammissioner Rollins on the ground of corruption. It's simply preposterous for such charges to be made against a man of whom, whetever may be thought of his politics or capacity, not a word can be said on the second of personal integrity.
